

ABSTRACT

The research was conducted at the National College Yahuarcocha entitled "Methodological techniques for developing language proficiency in English literacy among students in the early years of high school." The school "Yahuarcocha" is located in the area of home gardens, 2 km from the center of the city. The institution mentioned above has a major problem is the poor reading and writing in English to get a more accurate information was made a field study where the problem is directly visualized, analyzed the techniques used by teachers in the development of reading and writing in English, to have clearer and better understand how the problem was due research in books, internet helped to have a clearer picture of the problem and possible solutions that could occur in the institution , under investigation. Having investigated the problem from all points of view was applied due to surveys of students and teachers of the National College "Yahuarcocha" which provided a great openness and cooperation due to results applied the statistical method in which proceeded to tabulate each of the responses and arrive at concrete conclusions and recommendations and real. Thus, it concludes that teachers need a technical guide to develop literacy in English because they have the skills but lack of use of the same, are not successful in their application and is especially necessary to have a document that serves as a basis for developing these skills, with innovative activities that will awaken a taste for the English language in all further skills in reading and writing by which we motivated students in the teaching-learning process .