

ABSTRACT

This Project was done in students and teachers of eighth years of Basic Education of Nacional Ibarra high school from January to June of 2010, the main purpose was to provide motivating strategies to get better the inter-learning process of English language, besides it was justified because of lack of desire of learning English, it was developed through the usage and the application of a methodology, which includes documental, field and descriptive search, the researching group began its process pointing the high school, after it did a brief diagnostic of the situation of the high school, after that, it established the investigation problem and set objectives. Then it considered information in the chapter II as a fundamental aspect into the development of search, because it provides scientific, psychological, pedagogy, educative and social information, It' worth to say that the constructivism and meaningful learning theories are the most important part of the research, in what concerns the usage of the methods, it's to make possible to carry on the project. The students and teachers were part of a survey, which one was by getting results and after that analyze and interpret them in order to obtain conclusions and recommendations to students and teachers. Finally the group presented the alternative proposal to the problem to get motivated students in inter-learning process of English language. The project could be concluded that is a significant support oriented to educative field to a good academic performance of students.